Data Scrub

Launch of new dashboard revealed data integrity issues, participants will be hearing from Lindsey Brackett to clean up data.

I'm reaching out to you because ASHE needs your help with cleaning up the Energy to Care Dashboard database. A new dashboard means a fresh start and an opportunity to make sure all the saved facility data is complete and accurate.

It looks like you haven't had a chance to sign into the new system since it was launched in September, so we're just checking in with you.

Access the new Energy to Care Dashboard by following this link:

<https://www.energytocare.org/dashboard>

Let us know if you run into any challenges while signing in for the first time. Your user name and password should still be valid from the previous version.

After you sign in, there are a few data points we need you to review and verify for accuracy. Can you take a minute to look over the information below and respond to me with either a confirmation or corrections?

New Process for the Challenge

ENERGY to care CHAPTER CHALLENGE

- To be eligible to compete, the facilities must have complete energy data entered in Energy to Care for the year (4/1/18 thru 3/31/19).
- All energy data must be entered into the Energy to Care platform no later than June 30, 2020.
- Energy to Care participants can view their chapter rank on the Energy to Care Dashboard. Data will be updated on or around the 1st of each month.
- The Challenge will compare weather-normalized Source EUI between two, 12-month period, ending dates 3/31/19 and 3/31/20. The chapter that demonstrates the greatest percent-based reduction in weather normalized EUI across the two periods will be the winner.
